Released 2026-09-18 | Division of Acute Infectious Diseases

SAMPLE / DEMO ONLY

Influenza season under way: expanded eligibility for government-funded antivirals extended to 31 October 2026

Influenza is in its epidemic period and rising: 136,796 ILI outpatient and emergency visits in week 36 (6-12 Sep, +16.5% week on week); 92 severe cases and 21 deaths were reported 8-14 Sep.

The peak is expected around the Mid-Autumn Festival.

What changes (Letter to the Medical Community No. 616):

- Eligibility for people with ILI symptoms in seven high-transmission groups (health-care and long-term-care staff and residents, childcare workers, students, cohabitants or carers of high-risk people, livestock and animal workers, crowded institutions) runs to 31 Oct instead of 30 Sep.
- No rapid test is required for anyone a physician judges eligible, including the year-round groups (children under 5, adults 65+, pregnant women, hospitalised and high-risk patients).

Advice:

- Antivirals work best within 48 hours of symptom onset.
- Government-funded antivirals are stocked at about 4,000 contracted institutions nationwide.
- Hotline: 1922 (from abroad +886-800-001922).
